

 Unusual Occurrences with Erik Medhus as told by Elisa Medhus, MD ***

On October 8, 2009, twenty-year old Erik Medhus took his life. It wasn't long before his family began sensing his presence. The following is a recap of some events that happened, written by Erik's mother, Elisa Medhus, MD. As a physician with a "science-focused education", Dr. Medhus was taught that something was "real" only if it could be perceived by one of the senses or measured by an instrument. An agnostic herself, she was raised by two atheists who taught her there was no life after death. After her son's death, she was left wondering, "Does Erik still exist in some form, and if so, where is he?"

Three days after Erik died, Dr. Medhus received a call from her father, the "more militant atheist of my parents", she explained. In a panicked voice, he described how he was sitting in his chair reading his paper when, all of a sudden, he looked up to find Erik standing in front of him. Then, he said Erik changed into a little boy version of himself and crawled onto his lap. He said, "I'm so startled! I don't know what to believe!"

And so began a series of events that continue to this day.

My father's experience, and the discovery of the orb began my journey from skeptic to believer. Over and over, Erik challenged my skepticism. I watched as he turned on unplugged appliances and water faucets, locked deadbolts, and dropped Airsoft BBs from the ceiling above me. He even called me on the telephone. Still, the "scientist raised by atheists" in me remained a substantial hurdle. Time would pass after each of these unexplained experiences, and during those periods I would second guess myself. That's when the doubts would creep in.

It was only until we captured his voice on a recording of a channeling session with a medium that I completely and permanently believed that Erik lives on in another dimension. The first time I heard it, I immediately recognized the voice as that of my son's: distinctive tone, how he pronounced "breakfast" as "breakfiss," and his incessant throat-clearing tic. A mother knows.

Image 1: Below is a bright "orb" caught on camera by my daughter, Michelle, who decided to take pictures when she felt her brother's presence a few days after Erik's passing. The "comet's tail" implies movement, so we had it analyzed by photography expert, Rahasya Poe. In the second photo (image 2), the gamma is reduced, revealing that the orb is its own light source, which casts light on nearby structures.

Voices Heard

1. About 3.5 years after Erik passed, a blog member wrote to tell me that they heard voices on a recording that were not the translators or mine while they were listening to a channeling I did with Jamie Butler a year or so after Erik's death. I listened to the interview and it clearly was his voice. I was intrigued enough to send the clip for analysis to audiovisual expert and author, Richard Martini, who claims that the voices he heard left no voiceprint and therefore could not be human. Below is the video clip that was analyzed by Martini, whose complete comments are available online at ChannelingErik.com

2. After another radio interview, the host called me to inform me that she heard a voice that was not heard live. If you listen at timestamp 1:02:15, you can hear Erik shouting, "Minions!" Jamie immediately follows with, "He's calling them minions." At timestamp 35:46, you hear him saying "yep" in reply to the host's question.

The following is a letter from R. Craig Hogan, PhD, who analyzed the voice in the above link. Hogan is the author of Your Eternal Self, and director of the Center for Spiritual Understanding, and on the boards of the Academy of Spiritual and Paranormal Studies and Association for Evaluation and Communication of Evidence for Survival.

Hi Elisa,

Thanks for the Electronic Voice Phenomenon (EVPs). I did listen to the "Minions" EVP. It's obvious neither of you seem to have heard it. It came out on the recording. We're doing research now with voice sounds that, as best as we can understand, they in spirit are able to convert the original sound to word tracks that play back as voices for recordings.

It appears Erik used your voice to create his electromagnetic track that plays back as “Minions.” You couldn’t hear it until you played it back. At first I thought it must be Jamie. So I used Jamie’s “Minion” to compare. I boosted the volume on Jamie’s “Minion.” It’s obviously not Jamie’s voice for the first clear “Minions.”

In hearing the two different sounds and in looking at the visual (see below), you’ll see that Erik’s “Minion” has the accent on the second syllable and a pause between syllables. It also doesn’t have the noise that shows up as narrow spikes that come from the lower quality phone audio. Jamie’s has no pause between syllables, accent on the first syllable, and large spikes from the noise of the phone.

It’s clear that Erik was able to convert her speaking sound into his “Minions” track to play back as “Minions.”

R. Craig Hogan, PhD’s analysis results:

3. In this “Personal Empowerment for Your Soul” interview at timestamp 8:43, you can hear Erik say, “Pushing her.” Then Jamie says, “He says he’s pushing you.”

4. Years ago I was interviewed for the “Spiritual Messengers Global Soul Summit” show. A YouTube subscriber pointed out that someone (presumably Erik) could be heard talking during it. At timestamp 1:27:48, after the host says that call-ins would be accepted and to “make some noise,” a voice shouts, “Woo hoo! Come on people!” Then Jamie goes on to say, “He said, ‘Come on people!’”

5. In this YouTube video, at time stamp 11:34, one can see a red orb float across the screen from the lower left hand corner to the upper right hand corner. I saw this as it was occurring as well. In addition, at timestamp 13:08 one can hear Erik say, “All of the above” after which Jamie says,

“He’s clicking ‘all of the above.’”

6. Here is a delightful video of my five year-old granddaughter, Arleen, after her uncle, Erik, “pranked” her. Although not “hard” evidence per se, the fact that children tend to be more truthful when they have no ulterior motive lends it weight.
